ACES 2024	Keynote could be paid by STEM grant. Looking at an AI direction. No current names - looking for someone who is classroom focused and is engaging and can present in-person.	Emily will include a link to the committee sign up when send out the minutes: Committee Link Sign Up Renee will send out a flyer for a

	Lori will be connecting with Todd Mclees regarding ideas. Folks have already reached out to Victor wanting to present, which shows an increase in interest from last year. Request for members to sign up for a committee. Otherwise, next week members will be randomly assigned and then Chairs will connect with the FDC member. Presenters do get 30 professional learning points and can present more than once. Discussion of presentation ideas by committee members - classroom management as relates to neurodivergent students, mental health training as relates to the classroom Discussion of a "working lunch" so we can potentially end by 3:00 for those who need to pick up children. Idea to have mental health as the working lunch topic in a large group setting - either on West Campus or in the Ordway Auditorium. Returning to the idea of a generational learning panel. There was a presenter that came to AC years ago to discuss this topic in the classroom.	"Save the Date" for Call for proposals. It will market why it's a good idea to present. Renee will reach out to Rhonda Merritt about folks who have gone to conference in the past year, so that the committee can then reach out and ask them to consider presenting at ACES. Victor/Renee will reach out to Counseling to ask them to specifically present about Mental Health in the classroom. Lisa McKay will reach out to some of the faculty members who remember the generational learning presenter to get a name. When send out the Call for Proposals, need to specify that there are specific topics and at specific times.

	Pam Ortega sent the Call for Proposals to Victor and Renee. It will be sent out late next week or early the following week. Kara and Ray have been discussing a Google Site and Eventbrite rather than paying for Sched as there has been pushback with Sched regarding lack of user-friendly, downloading a new app, no caps to rooms, etc. The free session of Eventbrite caps at 25 per room.	Victor will create a schedule for when breakout sessions will occur. Kara will send the Google Site draft to Emily who will send it out with the minutes. *Emily note: There is no link to Kara's Site as it has not yet been published. However, you should have access to view it in the 2023-2024 ACES folder linked here. It is a Google Site titled "ACES 2024". Victor is meeting with admin to pinpoint ACES location.
