

Requirements for Licensed Texas Law Enforcement Careers
as of 2/24/2011

In Texas, you are not licensed until an agency sends a completed license application to the Commission.

In order to become licensed as a peace officer or county jailer in Texas there are three requirements:

1. successful completion of the basic licensing course;
2. passing of the state licensing examination; and
3. appointment by a law enforcement agency.

We have listed the requirements for enrollment in a basic licensing training program and the requirements to be licensed. Each academy and/or agency may have additional requirements for training, licensing, and appointment. You will need to check with the specific academy/agency for their requirements.

Minimum Enrollment Requirements for training as a Texas Peace Officer or County Jailer (Commission Rule 215.15)

The list below are the minimum requirements, academies may establish additional requirements or standards for enrollment in law enforcement training programs.

Unless otherwise noted, the requirements are the same.
