Title IX Fundamentals for Higher Education is an online learning experience that introduces participants to Title IX compliance work, including roles and responsibilities, common team structures, and required processes. The course provides participants the opportunity to examine the history and purpose of Title IX, related federal guidance and regulations, and key court decisions that shape current Title IX compliance practices. Additionally, the course reviews the U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights' role in overseeing Title IX compliance for colleges, universities, and other institutions. Lastly, the course will do a deep dive on the forms of harassment and discrimination covered by Title IX along with relevant definitions.

This course is intended to be a Title IX primer ATIXA's Title IX curriculum for higher education practitioners. Training participants will be expected to have completed this eTraining — or have the same knowledge from prior training and/or experience — prior to beginning other training courses.
